I. Call to Order

M. Dokucu called the meeting to order at 6:06 PM ET.

II. Discussion Items:

R. Renner advised the committee that a link will be sent out to complete their disclosures, as required by Amedco. Members should fill out and submit their disclosures by Friday, October 3.

The committee reviewed the resources for the symposia submissions, including the guidelines, example submission, submission form, and the how-to guide for the site. The committee then discussed potential topics they would like to see. After discussing, the committee agreed to not include the topics in the call for symposia proposals but rather use it as a tool to guide their speaker selection. It was emphasized that a safety session be included, discussing common and uncommon side effects, such as retinal detachment, seizures, tinnitus, syncope, panic, headaches, etc. It was noted that most of the topics that were suggested could be divided into two categories, treatment protocols for different conditions and real-world TMS considerations.

After reviewing the topics, the committee continued discussions around speaker invitations. It was noted that there was high interest in Joseph Taylor's AINT trial, and the information will be available by the 2026 Annual Meeting. The committee agreed to have J. Schwartz invite J. Taylor to speak on the AINT trial. It was noted that Leanne Williams declined the invitation to speak at the 2025 Annual Meeting as she had prior commitments. The committee agreed to reach out earlier this year to hopefully ensure she is able to attend and speak. After discussions, the committee also agreed to have L. Carpenter invite L. Williams to speak at the meeting. M. Dokucu advised the committee that he had spoken with Saydra Wilson about a talk reviewing the literature on TMS and schizophrenia. The committee agreed that this would be an interesting session. Lastly, the committee expressed interest in having a session on TMS and fibromyalgia. L. Carpenter noted a popular paper had been published with an international first author that could be a good speaker for the meeting. Members agreed to table the discussion on potential speakers until the next committee meeting.

III. Adjournment

M. Dokucu adjourned the meeting at 7:03 PM ET.

The next committee meeting will be held on October 7th at 3pm PT / 5pm CT / 6pm ET / 11pm BST.
